Marshall BioResources: Supporting Our Community

Marshall BioResources has long been part of the fabric of the local community in North Rose, N.Y. In addition to supporting medical and veterinary research, the company and the Marshall Family Foundation invest in programs and partnerships that strengthen the region and improve quality of life for local residents.

These efforts include support for parks and recreation, schools and students, nonprofit organizations, local emergency services, and employment opportunities that help people build long-term careers right here at home.

COMMUNITY SPACES FOR LOCAL FAMILIES

Through ongoing funding from the Marshall Family Foundation, Marshall Park provides free recreational space and gathering areas for local residents and families. The park is open to the public and includes amenities such as ball fields, playgrounds, walking paths, and a community pavilion.

The Marshall Family Foundation continues to cover annual operating costs to ensure the grounds remain accessible to the community.

SUPPORTING LOCAL EMPLOYMENT AND WORKFORCE DEVELOPMENT

For many years, Marshall BioResources has been an employer of choice in our rural community. We consistently provide more than 200 jobs with comprehensive benefits, including health insurance and retirement plans.

Many employees have built long-term careers with the company, enabling them to continue living, working, and raising families within the area. We take great care to provide stability and support for employees, and create opportunities for professional growth within the community.

Marshall also maintains longstanding relationships with local school districts by offering part-time employment for students after school, during summers, and over holiday breaks. For many young people, these positions represent a first introduction to the workplace and an opportunity to develop valuable skills and experience.

GIVING BACK THROUGH PHILANTHROPY AND ANIMAL ADOPTION

Through our corporate giving and the Marshall Family Foundation, we contribute hundreds of thousands of dollars each year to local nonprofit and community organizations. Funding supports fire departments, libraries, hospitals, historical societies, health charities, and community centers throughout the region.

Marshall BioResources is also expanding efforts to help rehome animals through partnerships with existing adoption organizations, including Homes for Animal Heroes. In addition, we have formed a nonprofit organization and are pursuing licensing to establish a dedicated adoption and rehoming facility under New York State law.
